

Huei-Jyun Yin

Current position:

- Attending Dentist (Periodontologist), Department of Dentistry, National Taiwan University Hospital.

Specialty:

- General Dentist
- Periodontist

Education:

- DDS, School of Dentistry, National Taiwan University.

Career and certification:

- Attending Dentist, Department of Periodontology , National Taiwan University Hospital.
- Chief Resident of Department of Periodontology , National Taiwan University Hospital.

Reminder from Dr. Yin:

- The proportion of periodontal disease in Taiwan is more than 80%. There is no obvious sign in the early stage of periodontal disease. Therefore, people often ignore it. The bacteria of periodontal disease increase and start to cause pain, suppuration, bad breath. The supporting bone around the teeth is going to be lost, and the teeth will become mobile and finally need to be extracted. Although some people know that they have suffered from periodontal disease, they choose not to see a dentist because of fear of trouble or pain, and even use remedies. However, these methods are not only ineffective, but also delay medical treatment. Therefore, the sooner you start to receive professional dental care and develop the correct brushing habits, the more effective it is to prevent periodontal disease or prevent the deterioration of periodontal disease!

Online Registration : Register

NTUHF