

Shang-Jen Chang

• Current position:

- Attending Physician, Department of Urology, National Taiwan University Hospital.

• Specialty:

- Female Urology
- Pediatric Urology
- Voiding Dysfunction
- Minimal Invasive Surgery (Laparoscopy and Robotic Surgery)

• Education:

- MPH, Institute of Epidemiology and Preventive Medicine, National Taiwan University.
- MD, School of Medicine, National Taiwan University.

• Career and certification:

- Associate Professor, School of medicine, Tzu Chi University. Chair, Division of Urology, Taipei Tzu Chi Hospital

• Reminder from Dr. Chang:

Urine incontinence and pelvic organ prolapse are common among the female elders. The severity of symptoms can be relieved though behavioral therapy. However, it is important to consult female urologists for further management when quality of life and daily activity are severely compromised by these urological symptoms.

NTUHF