

Chih-Fan Chen

• Current position:

- Attending Physician, Department of Anesthesiology, National Taiwan University Hospital

• Specialty:

- Regional Anesthesia and Pain Medicine
- Cardiothoracic and Vascular Anesthesia
- General Anesthesia

• Education:

- BS, Psychology, National Chengchi University

- M.D., School of Medicine, Fu Jen Catholic University

• Career and certification:

- Attending physician, Department of Anesthesiology, Lotung Poh-Ai Hospital
- Attending physician, Department of Anesthesiology, National Taiwan University Hospital Hsin-Chu Branch
- Resident, Department of Anesthesiology, National Taiwan University Hospital

• Reminder from Dr. Chen:

A pain physician treats pain conditions such as acute and chronic pain, cancer pain, and neuralgia (including herpetic neuralgia, trigeminal neuralgia, diabetic polyneuropathy and peripheral neuropathy).

A pain doctor who has a background in anesthesiology would be more familiar with techniques in regional anesthesia and pain management, combining with image-guided pain interventions. The goal is to improve the patient's quality of life by relieving pain.

NTUHF