

Chin-Jui Wu

---

• Current position:

- Attending Physician, Department of Surgery, National Taiwan University Hospital

• Specialty:

- Gynecology
- Urogynecology
- Gynecology Oncology

• Education:

- PhD, Institute of Toxicology, National Taiwan

University.

- MD, School of Medicine, Taipei Medical University.

• Career and certification:

- Attending Physician, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, National Taiwan University Hospital Hsin-Chu Branch
- Clinical Assistant Professor, College of Medicine, National Taiwan University
- Board-Certified Specialist in Female Urology and Pelvic Floor Reconstruction
- Supervisor, Formosa Urogynecology Association of Taiwan

• Reminder from Dr. Wu:

Pelvic organ prolapse, urinary incontinence, and gynecologic tumors are my areas of expertise.

The first two conditions affect quality of life, while the latter can be life-threatening.

Throughout my years of medical practice, I have always upheld the belief of standing in the patient's shoes and thinking from their perspective.

I understand that many women may feel embarrassed or hesitant to seek medical help or to share their condition with family or friends, which can lead to delays in diagnosis and treatment. I would like to remind everyone that there is no need to feel pressured when seeking care, as there are often multiple treatment options available. With a professional approach, we will carefully evaluate each case and provide appropriate advice and support. Ultimately, every decision will always be made with the patient' s best interest and wishes as the top priority.

NTUHF